Tuff Leslie

Tuff is a rock made of volcanic ash, and so this MagickalEarth invokes Fire-Earth.

Sediments, such as salts, are often used in ritual magick for either invoking specific spiritual elements, deities, as an offering, or casting a protective circle. Use this yellow exotic sediment to invoke:

Fire - Sun - Leo - Divine Feminine - Ancestors - Lust

Geology: Tuff of Leslie Gulch

The Owyhee Volcanic Plateau is the original site of the mantle-plume hotspot that now drives volcanism at Yellowstone National Park. In the south, volcanic formations are as old as 16 million years, but this formation on the north side is radiometrically dated at 15.81 million years and originated from the Rooster Comb Caldera. The yellow color is from iron-oxide minerals formed during later alteration.

Mythology and Archetypes:

Leslie is an explosively passionate silicate manifestation of the feminine divine; a heart filled Lioness. The canyons are smoothly shaped, in places bulbous and voluptuous. Her yellow color is the color of the Sun above, that scorches her dry desert slopes while riparian crevices may remain moist enough for life. The high spires, it is said, represent the spirits of this place; while the cavernous wells represent the souls.
